

Requiring radio broadcasters to record and store 60 to 90 days worth of programming will place an unreasonable financial burden on broadcasters, especially on very small market broadcasters like me. It would require additional expensive equipment, storage space, and additional personnel.